

SYNTHETIC RISK REWARD INDICATOR

Equity and property investments are volatile by nature and subject to potential capital loss. For credit and income instruments, while unlikely, capital loss may also occur due to an event like the default of an issuer.

FUND OBJECTIVE

The Growth MultiFund aims to provide high levels of growth with moderate to high levels of risk and volatility over the medium to longer-term.

The Sub-Fund is actively managed and is not managed in reference to any benchmark. It is managed by reference to a performance target which is to outperform USD LIBID +3% to 5% over a minimum five years.

SUITABILITY & RISK AND REWARD

The Growth MultiFund is suitable for clients with an investment time horizon of a minimum 5 years. Investing in the fund involves a risk to capital in order to achieve the desired return.

To achieve the investment objective, the portfolio invests across a range of asset classes within a strategic and tactical asset allocation framework designed to maximise diversification benefits. An absolute and relative valuation-based approach underpins this framework, resulting in a multilayered process to facilitate disciplined decision-making and risk management.

Portfolio construction combines exposures to active fund managers, who are expected to outperform their defined benchmarks and passive investment vehicles which provide low cost access to markets. This blend of active and passive funds is used to create a competitively priced investment solution.

ASSET ALLOCATION³

1) The annualised total return is the average return earned by an investment each year over a given time period. Performance is calculated for the portfolio and individual investment performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment, the actual investment date, the date of any reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. Data source Nedgroup Investments (IOM) Limited.

2) The on-going fee is a measure of the actual expenses incurred in the management of the Classes of the Sub-Fund. The on-going fee shown is expressed as a percentage of the monthly average value of the portfolio calculated over a 12-month period as at the date shown. The current on-going fee cannot be used as an indication of future on-going fees. A higher on-going fee does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low on-going fee imply a good return.

November 2021

MARKET COMMENTARY

November looked like it was going to be another positive month for risk assets, but it all changed in the final week with the discovery of the Omicron variant of Covid-19. The significant number of mutations seen in this new variant translated into heightened concern regarding its transmissibility, virulence, and its ability to evade current vaccines than other previous variants. Whilst information regarding these areas of concern was very limited, anecdotal at best, the increased uncertainty put all risk assets under substantial pressure. Essentially, we saw a classic “flight to safety” with falling equity markets resulting in a sharp rally in government bonds.

Global equity markets were overall negative (-1.7%), with emerging market equities (-3.2%) lagging developed markets due to fears over the impact of Omicron on economic activity. In terms of style, growth stocks (-1.1%) outperformed the more value / cyclically (-3.8%) orientated equities. This was also reflected in sector performance with Information Technology stocks the only positive area, as these stocks benefited from more people potentially working from home, whilst more economically exposed Financials and Energy sectors lagged.

Within fixed income markets, concerns over Omicron meant investors moved into “safe haven” government bonds, with the expectation that the new variant would reduce the likelihood of any imminent rate hikes from central banks. Looking at the detail, higher quality global government bonds (+1.1%) and global investment grade credit (+0.2%) generated a positive return over the month, whilst at the riskier end of the spectrum global high yield (-1.0%) and emerging market hard currency debt (-1.4%) both declined.

In terms of real assets, property markets generated an equity-like return over the month with the global REITs index down -2.2% over the period. Commodities were down sharply, led mainly by crude oil (-19.1%) with oil demand seen as being under renewed risk due to the emergence of the Omicron variant.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The end of November saw the Growth MultiFund close the month down around -3% for the US dollar share class whilst the GBP share class fell -1% (the difference reflecting the strength of the US dollar over the month). This follows a strong period of growth with the year to date return comfortably ahead of both peer group and longer term cash (+) targets.

The drivers of absolute returns over the month were concentrated within risk assets such as: equities, real assets and alternatives as these were impacted the most by the Omicron variant concerns. Within equities the strongest relative returns (least negative) came from our more defensive holdings such as Fundsmith Equity Fund and Morgan Stanley Global Brands. These positions helped to reduce the overall impact of our exposure to more cyclical / economically sensitive sectors via Dodge & Cox Global Stock Fund and our emerging market equity holding in TT Emerging Markets Equity.

Elsewhere, there were a wide range of performances within our real asset and alternative strategy space. Within property, BMO Commercial Property was down slightly (circa -1%) reflecting concern about the impact of Omicron on economic activity. Impact Healthcare, however, demonstrated its more defensive qualities by posting a small positive return for the month. Our overall exposure to renewable energy infrastructure was a drag on returns, as the sector was broadly seen as being negatively impacted from reduced electricity demand if the new variant impacted UK economic growth. The more traditional infrastructure holdings, posted mixed results with 3i Infrastructure generating a return of nearly +5% after revealing strong interim results, whilst our indirect exposure via Atlas Global Infrastructure fell around -4% as the re-imposition of international travel restrictions due to Omicron negatively impacted certain airport related holdings. Within our alternative positions it is also worth highlighting the performance of our two song royalty rights holdings, Hipgnosis Songs and Round Hill Music which were both positive despite the broad market sell-off, proving the diversification benefits of these exposures.

In terms of portfolio activity, did not make any material strategy changes over the month.
