

SYNTHETIC RISK REWARD INDICATOR

Equity and property investments are volatile by nature and subject to potential capital loss. For credit and income instruments, while unlikely, capital loss may also occur due to an event like the default of an issuer.

FUND OBJECTIVE

The Income MultiFund aims to provide a lower risk, lower volatility investment option over the medium to longer-term.

The Sub-Fund is actively managed and is not managed in reference to any benchmark. It is managed by reference to a performance target which is to outperform USD 3 month LIBID over a minimum three years.

SUITABILITY & RISK AND REWARD

The Income MultiFund is suitable for clients with an investment time horizon of a minimum 3 years. Investing in the fund involves a risk to capital in order to achieve the desired return.

To achieve the investment objective, the portfolio is principally fixed income focused but allows for 20% allocation to other asset classes. The principal aims are income generation and capital protection and the strategy has flexibility to invest across the full spectrum of global bond markets. The income share class will pay dividends on a quarterly basis on the last business day in March, June, September and December.

Portfolio construction provides exposure to active fixed income managers, who are expected to outperform their defined benchmarks. Blending actively managed fixed income funds together in this way creates a competitively priced investment solution.

¹ The annualised total return is the average return earned by an investment each year over a given time period. Performance is calculated for the portfolio and individual investment performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment, the actual investment date, the date of any reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. Data source Nedgroup Investments (IOM) Limited.

² The on-going fee is a measure of the actual expenses incurred in the management of the Classes of the Sub-Fund. The on-going fee shown is expressed as a percentage of the monthly average value of the portfolio calculated over a 12-month period as at the date shown. The current on-going fee cannot be used as an indication of future on-going fees. A higher on-going fee does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low on-going fee imply a good return.

November 2021

MARKET COMMENTARY

November looked like it was going to be another positive month for risk assets, but it all changed in the final week with the discovery of the Omicron variant of Covid-19. The significant number of mutations seen in this new variant translated into heightened concern regarding its transmissibility, virulence, and its ability to evade current vaccines than other previous variants. Whilst information regarding these areas of concern was very limited, anecdotal at best, the increased uncertainty put all risk assets under substantial pressure. Essentially, we saw a classic “flight to safety” with falling equity markets resulting in a sharp rally in government bonds.

Global equity markets were overall negative (-1.7%), with emerging market equities (-3.2%) lagging developed markets due to fears over the impact of Omicron on economic activity. In terms of style, growth stocks (-1.1%) outperformed the more value / cyclically (-3.8%) orientated equities. This was also reflected in sector performance with Information Technology stocks the only positive area, as these stocks benefited from more people potentially working from home, whilst more economically exposed Financials and Energy sectors lagged.

Within fixed income markets, concerns over Omicron meant investors moved into “safe haven” government bonds, with the expectation that the new variant would reduce the likelihood of any imminent rate hikes from central banks. Looking at the detail, higher quality global government bonds (+1.1%) and global investment grade credit (+0.2%) generated a positive return over the month, whilst at the riskier end of the spectrum global high yield (-1.0%) and emerging market hard currency debt (-1.4%) both declined.

In terms of real assets, property markets generated an equity-like return over the month with the global REITs index down -2.2% over the period. Commodities were down sharply, led mainly by crude oil (-19.1%) with oil demand seen as being under renewed risk due to the emergence of the Omicron variant.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The end of November saw the Income MultiFund close the month down around -0.4%. This follows a strong period of growth with the year to date return comfortably ahead of both peer group and longer term cash (+) targets.

Fixed income positions were mixed on the month. Our overall bias towards short dated high yield corporate bonds was a headwind for absolute and relative performance, as the “flight to safety” caused government bond yields to fall (prices rise) but corporate spreads to widen. This meant the holdings in higher quality investment grade credit and US governments bonds posted the best (most positive) returns during the month.

Elsewhere, there were a wide range of performances within our real asset and alternative strategy space. Within property, BMO Commercial Property was down slightly (circa -1%) reflecting concern about the impact of Omicron on economic activity. Impact Healthcare, however, demonstrated its more defensive qualities by posting a small positive return for the month. Our overall exposure to renewable energy infrastructure was a drag on returns, as the sector was broadly seen as being negatively impacted from reduced electricity demand if the new variant impacted UK economic growth. The more traditional infrastructure holding, 3i Infrastructure generated a very pleasing return of nearly +5% after revealing strong interim results. Within our alternative positions it is also worth highlighting the performance of our two song royalty rights holdings, Hipgnosis Songs and Round Hill Music which were both positive despite the broad market sell-off, proving the diversification benefits of these exposures.

In terms of portfolio activity, we did not make any material strategy changes over the month.
